THE PROCEEDINGS.

The Progress of the Assassin's Trial—Nine Jurymen Secured.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—All the people who could get in were in at 10 o'clock, when Judge Cox entered, bowed to the bar, and took his seat. John Wilson Guiteau and Mrs. Scoville were already in their seats. In a few moments the District Attorney, followed by Mr. Davidge, Judge Porter, Mr. Smith, of counsel, and Dr. MacDonald, of New York, expert in insanity cases, came in and took seats at the little counsel table. Scoville and Robinson came in together after a few moments, apparently reconciled. They acted in unison throughout the day. There was a few moments' hesitation. Then Guiteau, handcuffed, beat over and wild looking, came in, preceded by one and followed by three policemen and deputy marshals. He seemed to be in better physical condition than he was yesterday. He sat down between Scoville and Wilson Guiteau. Tall Porty Carson, the negro jester, took his handkerchief off and he was once more himself, or thought he was. He at once assumed the direction of the defense, content, however, to sit still, since he had not been admitted to practice at the bar of this court.

All was ready. The court looked inquiringly at Scoville, who had been standing for some time with a paper in his hand, popularly supposed to be a speech explaining his prospective withdrawal from the cause of his disagreement with Robinson. He read it. It turned out to be an application for an order compelling the attendance of thirty-five additional witnesses. The order was granted at once, the government making no objection. Then the seventy-five talesmen summoned were called forward and sworn on their voir dire. Of the seventy-five talesmen four were taken, and the court adjourned till tomorrow, when the names of the remaining thirty-one will be presented, from which it is hoped to secure the remaining three.

As soon as the court adjourned the spectators began to crowd out, and the room was cleared in an incredibly short space of time.

NOTIFIED TO APPEAR.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Secretary Blaine, the principal witness for the government to prove the shooting of President Garfield by Guiteau, has been notified to appear in court to-morrow.

AN EXPERT WITNESS.

Oshkosh, November 15.—Dr. Kempster, superintendent of the insane hospital, left to-day for Washington, to testify as an expert in the Guiteau trial.

"ED. WILLIAMS."

The Noted Desperado Jailed in Omaha.

OMAHA, Neb., November 15.—Ed. Maxwell, the notorious Wisconsin murderer, who was captured near Grand Island, Nebraska, last week, by Sheriff Killan, of Hall county, was this evening lodged in the county jail here. He was brought in on the Union Pacific overland train by that officer and Under-Sheriff Knight, of Pepin county, Wisconsin, heavily armed and closely guarded. Maxwell is a medium-sized man, with dark hair and complexion, wears a mustache and chin whisker, and dresses quite well, in a dark suit and white shirt. He absolutely refuses to talk, even to the jailer. Since his arrival, Sheriff Knight has received a telegram from the warden of the Illinois penitentiary, identifying Maxwell from a photograph sent him. Both brothers served a term in the Joliet penitentiary. It is uncertain when the prisoner will be taken East, as the request has not yet arrived. Probably it will be ready Thursday. At Maxwell, who escaped when the brother was captured, is still at large, though the officers are in pursuit. It is supposed he is hiding near Minden, Kearney county, in this State, where his father resides. Minden is situated near a region of sand hills, offering numerous hiding places, and he is probably fed by friends, who also keep him informed of the whereabouts of the pursuers.

THURLOW WOOD.

New York, Nov. 15.—ThurLOW Wood to-day celebrated his 81st birthday. The hearty congratulations of his friends poured in upon him, and the rooms of his residence were heavy with the perfume of flowers which had been sent him.

ROBBERY.

An Old Man's House Robbed of Between $30,000 and $40,000 in Gold.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 15.—The chief of police of this city was notified this afternoon by Jesse Baldwin, who lives a few miles south of Youngstown, Ohio, that his house had been robbed at 3 o'clock this morning of between $30,000 and $40,000 in gold, and offering a reward of $1,000 for the arrest of the robbers. Baldwin is the crank who recently created a sensation by appearing at the treasury department in Washington, D. C., and demanding gold for $17,000 worth of government bonds. He kept his money in an old-fashioned safe under the stairs in the balcony of his residence. The burglars were five in number. Four of them slept up stairs, and the first intimation they had of the presence of the thieves was the noise made by blowing open the safe with powder. George Lewis, Baldwin's son-in-law, fired three shots at the burglars as they fled from the house with the bags of gold in their arms. The outlaws returned a volley. No one on either side was injured. The robbers had previously taken two of Baldwin's horses and best carriage, and had them standing near the residence. They jumped into the buggy and escaped, going south.

MARY M'VICKER BOOTH.

New York, Nov. 15.—Mr. Booth arrived in this city Monday night and spent the evening in the house of his wife's parents. The funeral services of Mrs. Booth will be held to-morrow at 10 o'clock in the house of Mr. and Mrs. McKee Booth, No. 13 West Fifty-third street. The Rev. Robert Collyer will officiate and preach the sermon. The body will be taken to Chicago for burial. Mr. Booth will accompany the remains to Chicago. He is inconsolable and refuses to see his most intimate friends.

THE OSHKOSH FLOODS.

OSHKOSH, Wis., Nov. 15.—Two red-hot indignation meetings were held by the business men last night over the water question. The manufacturers and business men are roused to fever heat over the delay in getting an outlet to Lake Winnebago to relieve them from the present floods. Failing to get any satisfaction from Colonel Houston in opening the government locks, a strong memorial was adopted to-night to the Secretary of War asking his intercession. A committee was also appointed to go to Washington regarding the matter. The people here are so exasperated that if this fails there is no telling what extremes they may take to force an outlet for Lake Winnebago.

ST. PAUL.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 15.—The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road to-day, through its president, Alexander Mitchell, and General Manager S. S. Merrill, purchased from John I. Blair, of Blairtown, N. J., the controlling interest in the Chicago and Pacific railway, between Chicago and Savannah, Ill., for an unknown sum. A payment of $500,000 was made. This gives the St. Paul road a through track of its own from Chicago to Council Bluffs, Iowa.

BLAIR'S INTEREST.

MILWAUKEE, November 15.—Negotiations were concluded this afternoon whereby the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul company secured John I. Blair's interest in the Chicago and Pacific road. Mr. Blair will receive $500,000, par payment, to-morrow.

ACCIDENTS.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 15.—Ferdinand Kuntz was almost instantly killed this evening by a runaway on Grand avenue. Henry Hertel was found dead upon the railway near Elm Grove, having been run over by a train and literally cut to pieces. A boy named Joseph Withford was so badly injured to-day by running under a horse that he cannot survive the night.

DAM SUITS.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 15.—The trial of the three Milford dam suits, in which N. J. Hooker, John C. Wilson, and T. F. Drake, respectively, are the plaintiffs, and Nathan S. and Walt S. Greene, the defendants, was commenced in the Circuit Court of this county this morning. The defendants are the owners of a flouring-mill and water-power at Milford, Jefferson county, a very valuable property. To improve the water-power and make it permanently reliable, the defendants constructed a dam about forty years ago, and the result has been that large tracts of land above the dam were overflowed. For this the plaintiffs claimed heavy damages, and the suits have been in the courts for a number of years. A number of witnesses from Dodge and Jefferson counties have been summoned for the present trial, and the latest legal talent will contest every point in what is certain to be a protracted trial, lasting several weeks. It is expected that the cases will go to the Supreme Court whatever may be the jury's verdict. The costs of the trial will have to be borne by Jefferson county, until finally decided, will be very heavy. I am informed that for a distance of thirty or forty miles, extending from Beaver Dam southwest, the overflow from the river banks, caused by the Milford dam, is from one-half to a mile in width, and as each of the three cases are to be tried separately, independent of each other, there will be a great mass of testimony. The St. Paul railway company is in a certain sense interested in the outcome of these suits.

For quite a distance the roadbed of the main line west of Watrous is said to be impaired by the overflow of the water, which in some places comes close to the road-bed, and at times rises high enough to submerge the track.

EMERALD GROVE.

Mrs. J. W. Dean, her cousin, Miss Sarah Harris, and Mrs. John Mosely, left here on Wednesday last for Boston, where they were to take passage for Liverpool, England, to visit their native land. Mrs. Dean will visit in Shropshire, and Mrs. Mosely in Huntingdonshire. They will return early in the spring except Miss Harris, who will remain. A speedy voyage, pleasant visit and safe return is the wish of their many friends. The Congregational Sabbath school held a missionary concert last Sunday evening, conducted by Miss M. A. Cuckow. The program consisted of recitations and responsive exercises. Miss Cuckow read an interesting essay on missionaries and missions and Father Cheney and wife sang. A collection of curiosities from Japan added much to the interest. These were forwarded by Mother Curtis of Clinton. Mr. W. W. Curtis, of Oskosh, Japan. Some of our farmers report a good corn crop and good quality of corn. Others are not so fortunate. Thanksgiving services next week in the Congregational church at 10 o'clock a. m. Preaching by Rev. J. Richardson.

—Mr. and Mrs. Cummings leave this (Tuesday) morning for a visit to Chicago for a week or so.

—The school will open on Monday next, November 21st. Miss Cora Spoor will have charge of the lower room, and Mr. Tuttle, of Clinton, the upper room. Let the pupils all be on hand.

SHOPS.

—The Teachers' Association of Turtletown held a meeting at the school house in this village Monday evening, November 21st.

—Ed. Case has been quite sick with congestive chills, the past week.

—A very pleasant reception was held in the M. E. chapel, Monday evening, November 7th. The new minister, Rev. Mr. Fallows, and his bride having arrived and taken up their abode in the parsonage of course every one had an introduction to the newly married minister and his wife, which was nicely done by Mrs. A. Smith, and the evening was very pleasantly spent.

—The reading given by Mrs. Day, of Janesville, at the M. E. church, Wednesday evening, was very enjoyable.

—Mr. Henry Sweet is on the sick list. Neuritis is the cause.

—There will be a Sunday school concert at the Congregational church next Sunday evening.

—Dr. Mauley's new house is having the holes for "Santa Claus" put in. The old fellow can't go down them with a very big load.

—J. J. Van Wie and family started for Washington, Monday, intending to spend the winter with their daughter, Mrs. J. W. Thomas.

—J. N. Etile, of Washington, made our village a short call Sunday and left for home Monday morning.

—The "Women's Rights" entertainment at the Congregational church, passed off very pleasantly. The affair was true to nature and we hope the "Lords of creation" will be appeased hereafter.

—Mrs. H. G. McArthur, of Port Atkinson, is visiting her sister, Mrs. D. E. Belding.

—J. A. Dole got his corn all out—that is this year's crop. He has some of his 1880 crop to husk yet.

FULTON.

—Phil Casey's little son George has been very sick with diphtheria but is much better now.

—There is to be a change in our store. Mr. Nash goes to Janesville to enter into business with his father, and Mr. Lee takes charge of the store here.

—At the present writing the roads between here and Edgerton are almost impassable on account of the continual rains.

—The entertainment given by Mrs. Day, the eloquentist from Janesville, in Fulton church last night, was very well attended and highly enjoyed by everyone there. Some of her pieces elicited all to laughter while others brought tears to many eyes, and the playing of George Willis on the Harmonica accompanied by Mr. Hooble on the Guitar, exceeded all expectations. In fact every number was good.

—C. E. Bowles of the Singer Sewing Machine Co. was in town to-day looking after business.

—Mrs. R. J. Greenman returned last week from St. Peter, Minn., where she has been visiting brothers and sisters for several weeks.

—The young people tripped the light fantastic at Morgan hall Thursday night last. Some 50 numbers being sold for the party. Fond du Lac furnished the music and Landford Steaton the supper.

—J. S. Green, of Albion, unloaded a car of hard lumber at this station on Thursday last for the manufacture of his patent harrow. Mr. Green is considering the propriety of locating his harrow factory at this point.

—Geo. Benton went to Chicago on Wednesday to purchase his wholesale and retail stock of holiday books.

—Mr. Nat. Kidder has moved into the Clark house on Church street, lately vacated by Geo. Builes, who has moved into his father's house.

—Mrs. M. Huffman, an old lady upwards of 70 years old, spun the yarn and knit 20 pairs of socks during the months of August and September.

—Rev. Courtland Rogers occupied the pulpit at the S. D. B. church on Saturday morning last.

—Mr. Thomas Rogers, Jr., of Brooklyn, N. Y., is in town visiting relatives. Rev. Morton Wardner, of Little Genesee, New York, spent the Sabbath with his father and mother in this place, and will preach next Saturday in his father's pulpit.

—The withdrawal of Mr. Sutherland the mail messenger of the Monroe branch, from this point as the terminal headquarters deprives this village of the early morning mail, which has been a great convenience to our business men. That mail reaches us now at 2 o'clock.

scarcity of dry wood, inducing many to burn coal instead of wood.

—Mr. Weighill, the new barber, has rented the room occupied by Mr. J. Foot in Smalley's building, together with the tenement rooms back of it, and above the same, and occupy them at once. Mr. Foot moves his grocery stock into the vacant store room of L. Davis.

—Mr. Alanson Coon and his daughter Nellie, has moved into their new residence on Vernal avenue. They have erected one of the most elegant and substantial homes in the village.

DESPICED.

By the unthinking, Burdock has been considered a weed, and its luxuriant growth, unpleasant smell, etc., has rendered it to those "not knowing its virtues" a nuisance, and yet the root has long been acknowledged by servants as most invaluable as a detergent, purifier and blood purifier. Burdock Bitters embody all its good qualities. Price $1.00, trial size 10 cents. For sale by A. J. Roberts and Sherer & Co.

LORD BYRON.

Byron has no relation to the master-minds whose work reflect a nation or an era, and who keep their own secrets. His verse and prose are alike biographical, and the inequality of his style are those of his career. It was natural for him to pose as the spokesman of two ages—as a critic, and as an author; and of two orders of society—as a peer and as a poet of revolt. Sincere in both, he could never forget the one character in the other.

The fact of his being a nobleman helped to make him famous; but it also helped to make him hated. No doubt it had a part to play in making a show; and the circumstance has suggested the remark of a humorist, that it is as hard for a lord to be a perfect gentleman as for a camel to pass through the needle's eye. But it also exposed to the rancor of jealousy a man who had everything but domestic happiness except that most corroding of literary passions; and when he got out of gear he became the quarry of Spencer's "blatant boast." We find him at once calmly asleep amid a crowd of trembling sailors, yet never going to ride without a nervous caution; defying angry, yet seriously disturbed by a gipsy's prattling. He could be the most genial of comrades, the most considerate of masters, and he secured the devotion of his servants as of his friends; he was too overbearing to form many equal friendships, and apt to be dangerous to his real rivals. His shifting attitude toward Lady Byron, his wavering purposes, his impulsive acts, are a part of the character we trace through all his life and work—a strange mixture of magnanimity and brutality, of laughter and tears, consistent in nothing but his passion and his pride, yet redeeming all his defects by his greatness, and wearing a greatness that his errors can only half obscure. Alternately the ideal and horror of his contemporaries. Byron was, during his life, feared and respected as the grand Napoleon of the realm of rhyme. In the interval between 1840-70, it was the fashion to talk of him as a sentimentalist, a romantic, a shallow wit, a nine days' wonder, a poet for green, unknown youth. * * * Now, however, he is resuming his place; his spirit has come again to our atmosphere; and every landing card, as in 1820, feels called on to pronounce, as a verdict on his genius and character.—Professor Nichol.

Uses for Sawdust.

Saw dust, says the Northwestern Lumberman, is to be discounted by a French chemist, who does not think its adaptability as an article of diet equal to its importance to dyers and chemists. M. Jasson thinks Minneapolis is the best place to manufacture an article wholly imported from France, which can be obtained in endless quantities from the sawdust. How fine the dust must be he does not inform the public; but his enterprise will be of value to the sawdust world if it only leads to the use of thinner saws in the manufacture of lumber. Bay City also finds a mysterious-looking thing going up on the banks of the Saginaw, opposite the metropolis of the valley, a building which the utmost secrecy has been observed. No one knows whether it is being erected to extract acid from sawdust or bismuth from slat bitumens. No doubt its projectors expect to find "millions in it" whatever the purpose to which it is destined. This is an era of progress. Hiram Smith, of Ellet, Mich., turns the smoke of charcoal smoking into acetic acid, and finds the smoke of more value than the charcoal. A patent has recently been taken out for window shutters in which pasteboard is substituted for wood; the slats and panels may be covered with ornamental paper and painted or stamped in imitation of wood of any grain or pattern. Wooden rails are being superseded by those made of paper, while paper moldings and paper ornaments are pressed into shapes and sizes and for purposes where but a short time ago elaborate carvings and the skill of the artist was all necessary. And now comes acid from sawdust. Whether to be used as a substitute for tea and coffee, or to manufacture the beautifully tinted lemonade which is such a favorite with loveless swains at the annual circus, depends not on perchance it is to take the place of the beverage which inebriates more than it cheers, in which case Minneapolis is not a bad choice for a location for its manufacture, provided certain of its mill men do not take too much stock in it, payable in sawdust.

In New York the other day a stevedore was injured by a falling cotton bale, and was placed in an ambulance apparently lifeless. As the vehicle rushed toward the morgue the surgeon in charge sounded the gong, as usual, to warn other vehicles. Suddenly he was startled by hearing the supposed dead man remark, "If you don't stop ringing that bell I'll get out and walk."
